For your highest priority issue, why is it your highest and how would you address it?

Chris Duncan (D)

We need to protect women’s right to choose and access to reproductive care in California. We can’t let far-right extremists get in the way of sensible, compassionate policies that uphold women’s freedom to control their own bodies and access the health care they need. My opponent opposes women’s right to choose. That’s just plain wrong.

What shouldn’t ever drive decisions in the Capitol is a partisan political agenda. The extremes on both sides are wrong. My opponent is a far-right Trump MAGA Republican who opposes abortion rights, rallied with January 6th insurrectionists, and called COVID “a blessing.” That extreme ideology puts our families’ at risk. I will work to protect us.

To help with our local environment, we need to fully fund programs to help with sand retention/replenishment. In addition, we need to update existing laws to ensure cities can qualify for environmental infrastructure improvement grants. Lastly, let’s modernize our renewable standards to allow more green energy sources into our climate portfolio.

I firmly believe many labor issues should be solved at the local level. That is why there are local unions. Sacramento does not need to pass legislation that restricts bargaining agreements or alters existing protocols to favor one union over another.
